

DAYDREAM

Synonyms: fantasize, castles in the air

She likes to look ahead and visualize what she might be doing in the future, fantasizing big dreams for herself. However, because she spends so much energy on her dreams, there may not be sufficient energy left to bring them to fruition.

He loves conceptualizing and would rather sit around talking about all the wonderful possibilities than actually take the steps needed to produce them. He finds the potential so much more exciting than the reality.

The most wonderful products start in the imagination, and because she is as practical as she is imaginative, her ideas can spawn some amazing results.

His overblown imagination causes him to invent all sorts of scenarios that have nothing to do with the truth.

Her imagination would put Walter Mitty to shame.