

DRAMATIC

Synonyms: theatrical, showmanship, emotional, fervent, passionate

Your handwriting reveals a vivacious, outgoing person with a strong sense of drama.

Life is never dull with this person around. As long as he has someone to play to, he will create excitement.

This is the kind of person who makes the most mundane event into something exciting. Colorful details are added to spice up dull stories and make everything larger than life.

She doesn't simply walk into a room, she makes an entrance!

Your handwriting is characterized by your free-spirited, dramatic style. Experiencing life in full, living color, you have a rich imagination and are entertaining to be around.

Speaking from her heart, there is never any question about her true feelings, as she wears them openly, on her sleeve.

His reactions are always big and outward, but the basic emotion can shift quickly from high to low and back again.

You are most comfortable being center stage, with an audience to play to. Warm, even flirtatious, you know how to get the attention you need.

His upbeat and witty sense of humor makes him a lively companion, and any environment where He is, is guaranteed to have plenty of action.

This is the person who invented making mountains out of molehills!

Approaching life with intensity and passion, she behaves as if she expected an abundance to be laid at her doorstep--and it usually is.

For this individual, life is a party to be savored and enjoyed, but also to share with a wide circle of good friends.

She may not be overtly gregarious, but in her quiet way she can create drama.

A natural performer, he needs an audience to play to.

He is not a shrinking violet who is content to stay behind the scenes, but needs social recognition and public acknowledgement of his contributions.

A natural performer, he is a showman and player. In a game of strategy, he wins.

Give him center stage and he will perform. He loves to give a good performance and add color to a conversation.

She exaggerates things unexpectedly. All of a sudden you are surprised that someone would make such a big deal out of that - whatever that may be.

Your zest for living and colorful personality have always made a dramatic impact on people (which is gratifying, isn't it?).

A dramatic flair is an adjunct to your need to be noticed and appreciated.

Her strong need for recognition prompts her to play to the attention and applause of others.