

Date: Mon, 7 May 2001 08:25:56 -0600

From: Robert McIntyre <robert.mcintyre4@GTE.NET>

Subject: Re: Death row prisoners

Although I do not have any statistics on your question, Robert Hare (Hare Psychopathy Checklist Revised) told me last year that he views psychopathy as a mitigating circumstance, given that such individuals are handicapped by an inability to experience a major part of life, that being normal emotional responsiveness.