

Lambda

Lambda is a crude index of the extent to which a person is willing to become involved in the life situations which confront them.

Lambda addresses the range of focus an individual brings to situations confronting them.

Lambda reflects the wish to be in control of their responses to the events they encounter in their lives.

(Exner 1991, p. 125)