

RECOGNITION, NEED FOR

Synonyms: acknowledgement, acceptance, appreciation

Naturally you want to be recognized and appreciated for your abundant talent. Fantasies of success and glory color many of your daydreams.

Recognition for your accomplishments adds icing to the cake.

When recognized and rewarded for her contributions, she gives back ten-fold. Willing to put in longer hours than requested, she will do that little bit extra for clients.

She is motivated to try harder when she receives recognition and attention for a good performance.

He expects recognition not only in praise, but in monetary reward, too.

Taking pride in his accomplishments, he enjoys recognition for his efforts.

Money is not enough to motivate him. He needs public recognition, too.

Success, for him, is based on his personal identity, not that of the company he works for.

Recognition is important to this individual and he will be unhappy if overlooked.

Rewarding him with flattery satisfies his need for approval.

Knowing that others notice and appreciate her leaves a warm glow of pride.

People-oriented, you are caring, generous and easy to be with. Yet, with all your amiability, you nevertheless need recognition and appreciation.